

The Hare and the Tortoise

The tortoise keeps going, step by step.

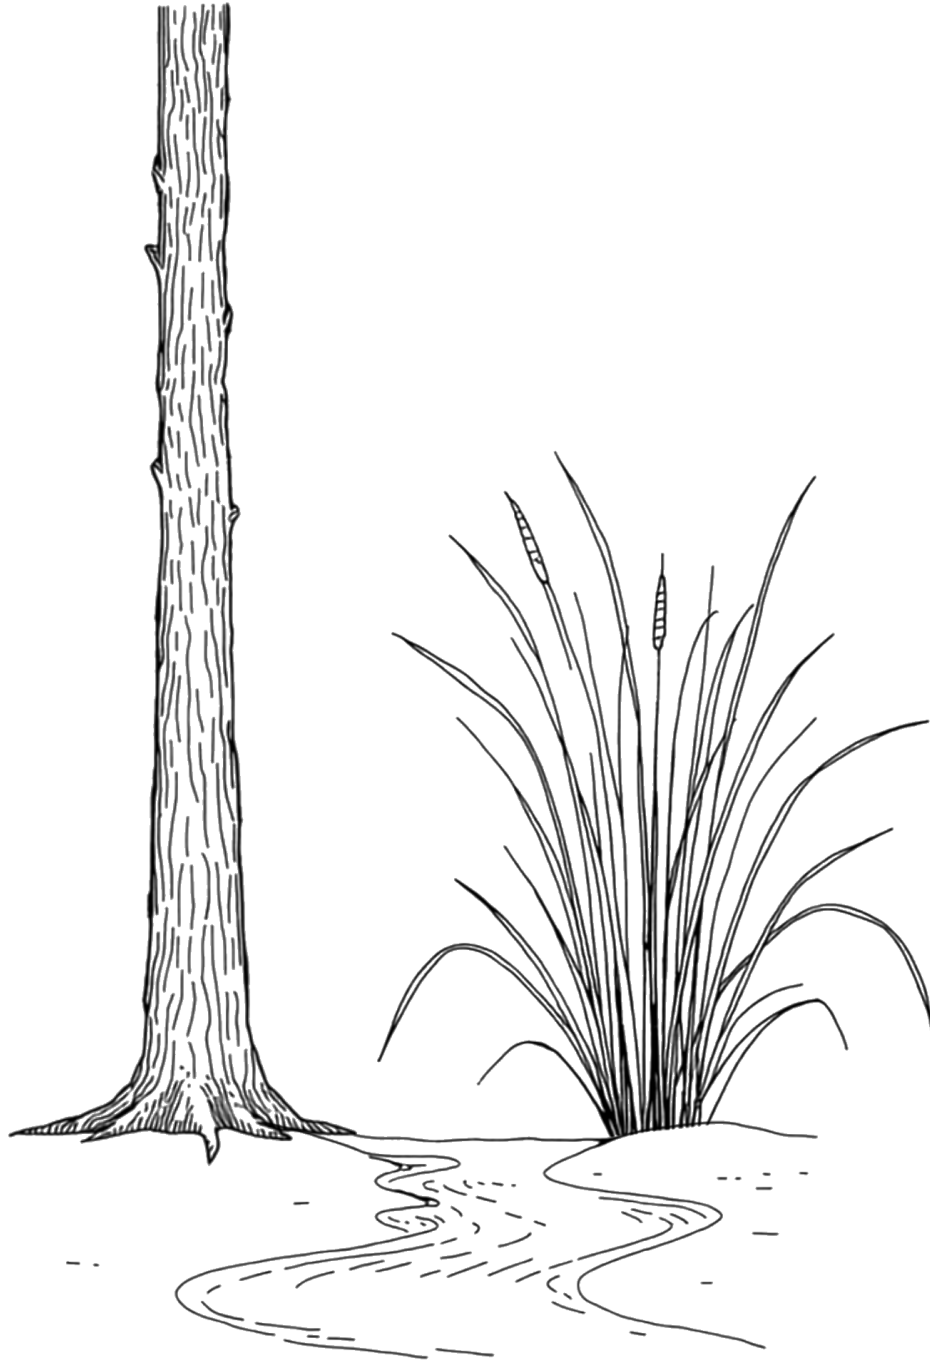

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Oak and the Reeds

The tall oak and the little reeds by the stream.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Lion and the Mouse

The little mouse comes to help the lion.

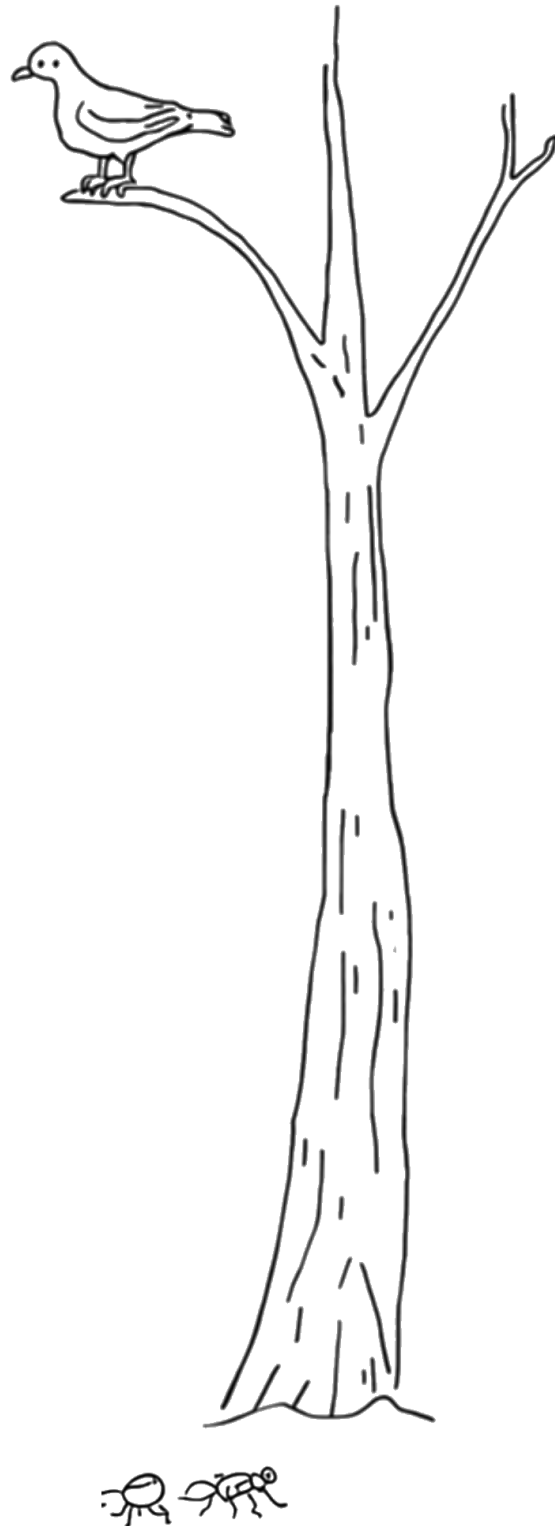

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Ant and the Dove

The tiny ant watches over the dove.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

COLOR THE STORY · VOLUME ONE

The Boy Who Cried Wolf

The boy shouts from the hill.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

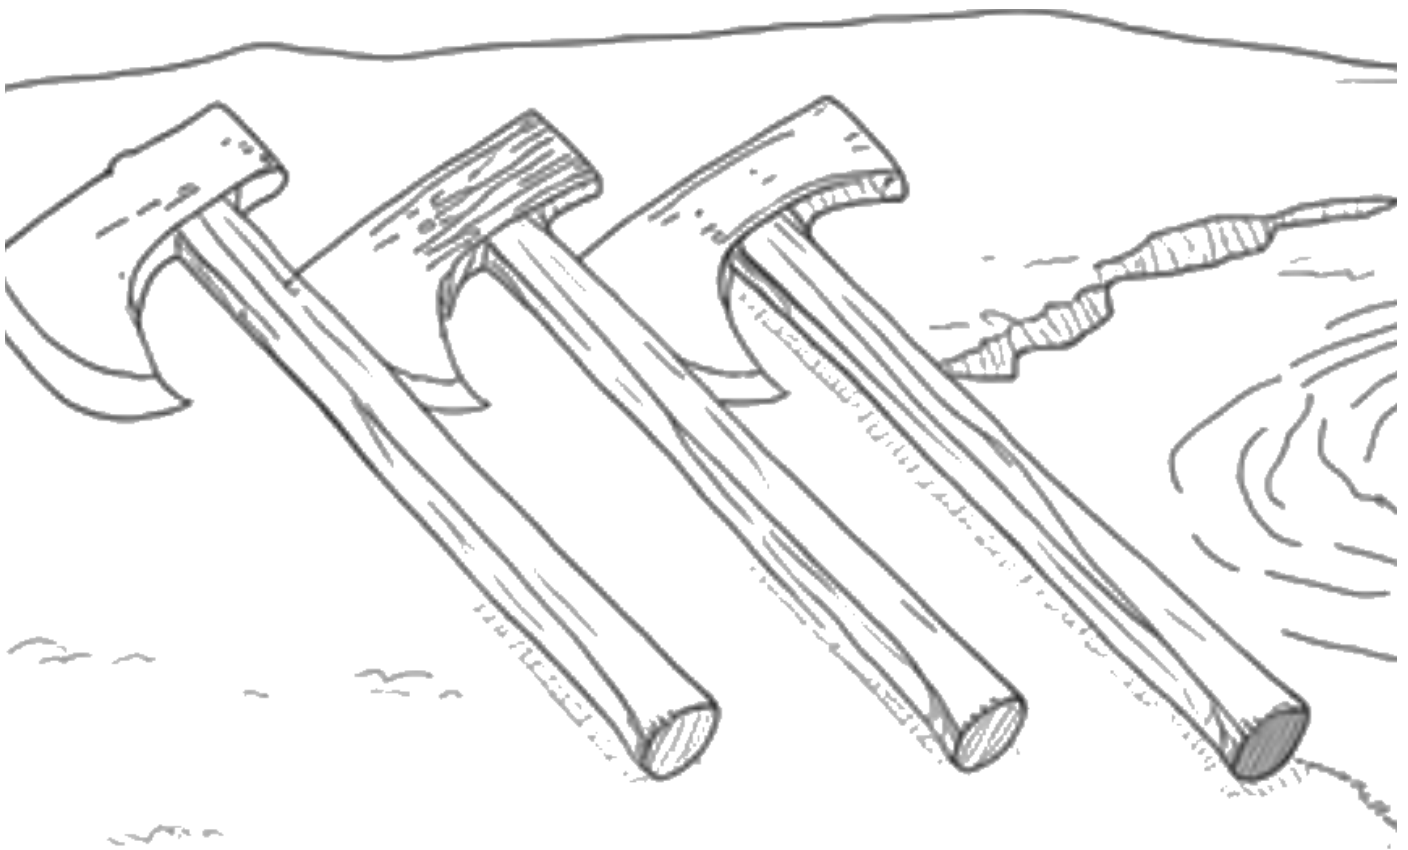

Fables & Stories of the World · Volume One: Aesop and the Classical World

© 2026 Tihika · worldwisefables.com

Free to print for home and classroom use.

The Honest Woodcutter

Three axes lie beside the deep pool.

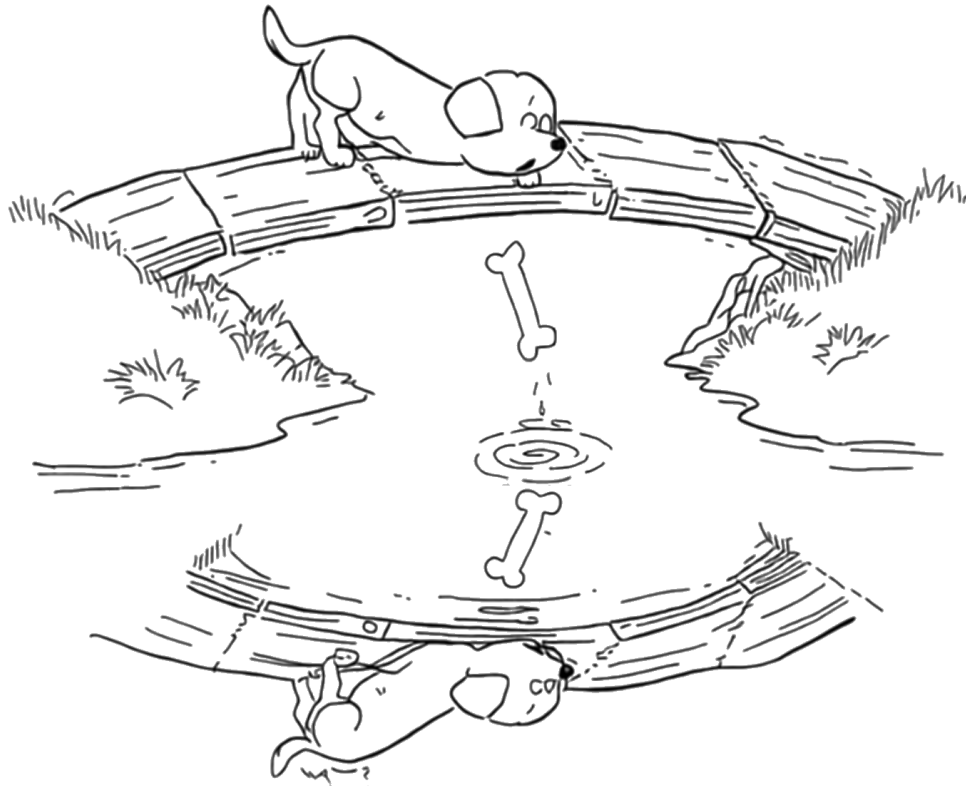

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Dog and His Reflection

The dog drops his bone into the stream.

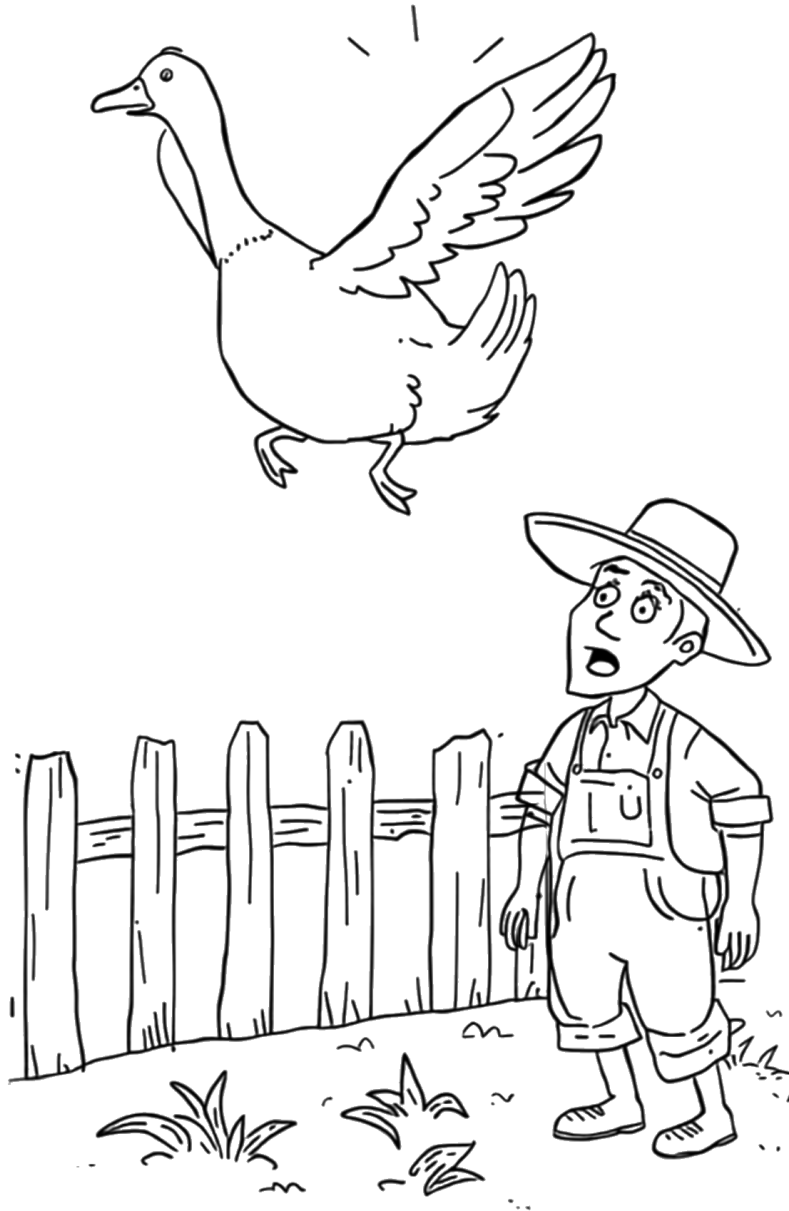

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Goose and the Golden Egg

The goose flies up and away over the fence.

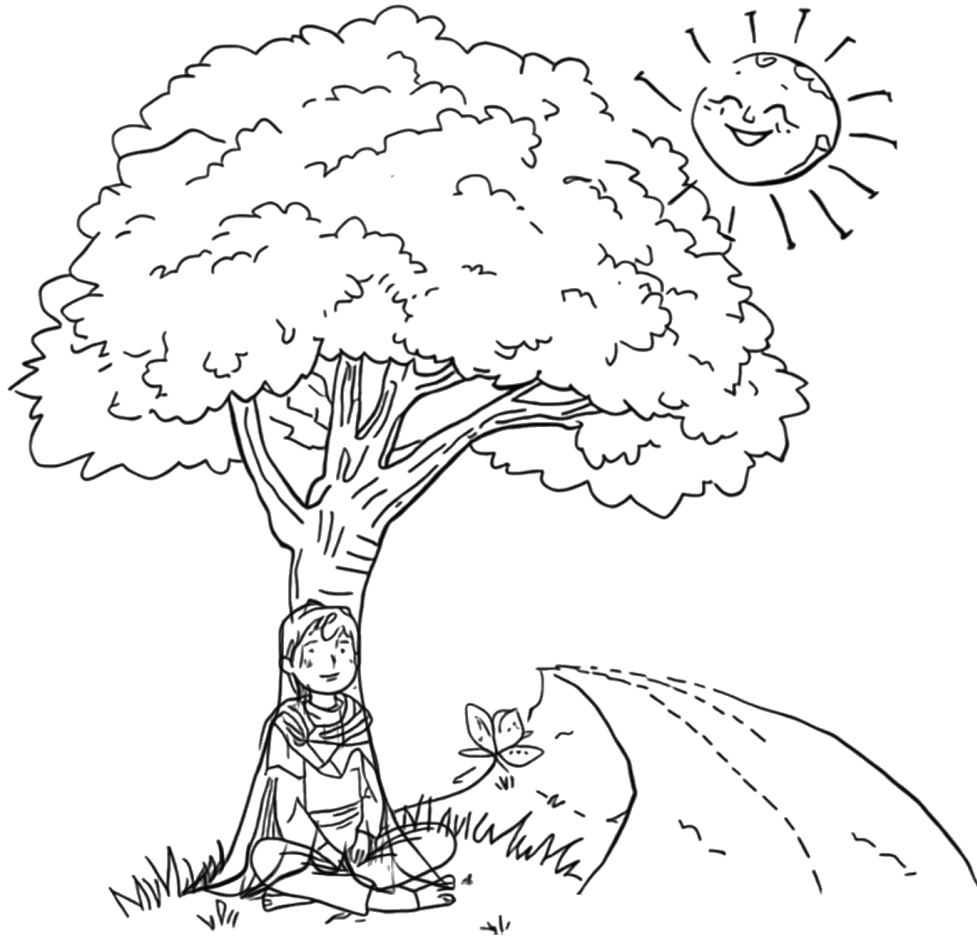

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The North Wind and the Sun

The traveler rests in the shade on a sunny day.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Fox and the Goat

The fox climbs out on the goat's back.

My name: _____

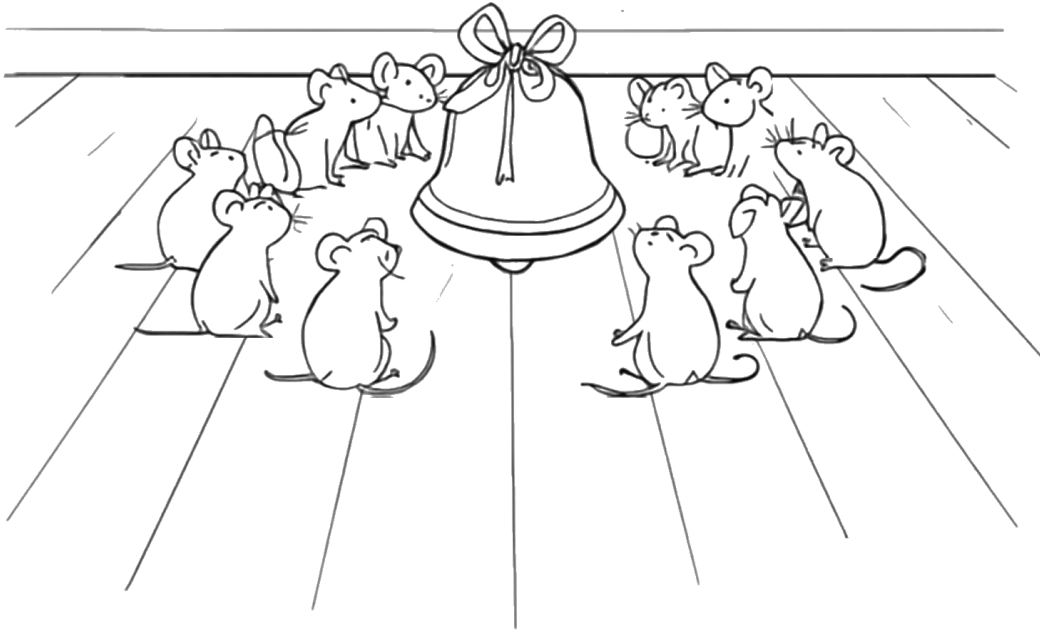

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

COLOR THE STORY · VOLUME ONE

Belling the Cat

The mice sit around the little bell.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

Fables & Stories of the World · Volume One: Aesop and the Classical World

© 2026 Tihika · worldwisefables.com

Free to print for home and classroom use.

The Crow and the Pitcher

The crow looks into the tall pitcher.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Fox and the Crow

The crow opens her beak, and the cheese falls.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

The Jackdaw and the Borrowed Feathers

The jackdaw shows off his borrowed peacock feathers.

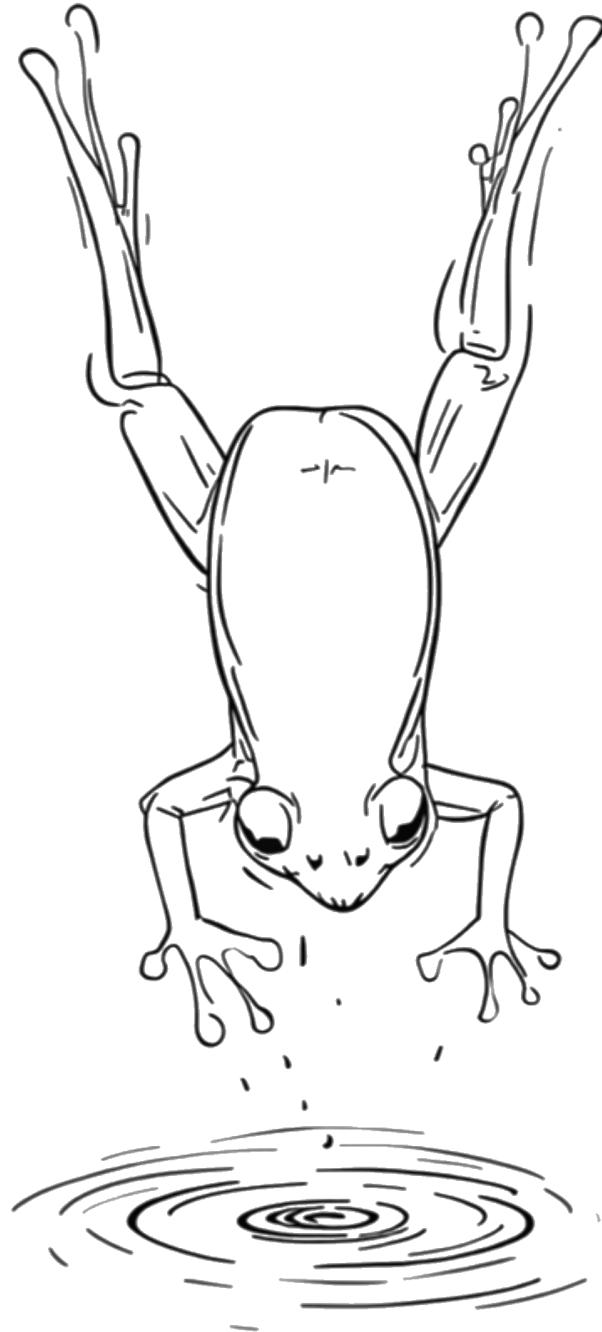

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Frog and the Ox

Whoosh! The old frog is her own size again.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Miller, His Son, and the Donkey

Splash! The donkey tumbles into the river.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Two Travelers and the Bear

The bear sniffs the man who lies very still.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Leap at Rhodes

The cobbler draws a chalk line on the floor.

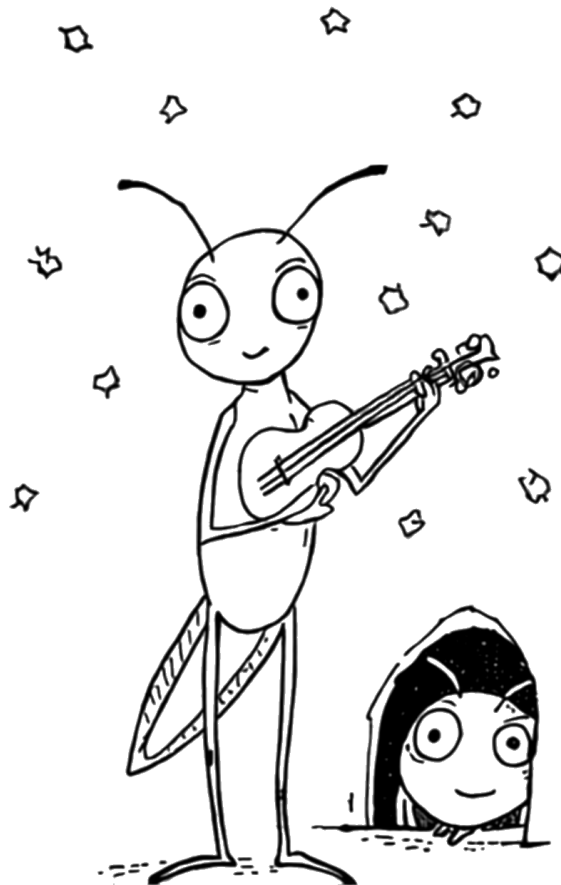

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Ants and the Grasshopper

The grasshopper comes to the ants' door in the snow.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).

The Farmer and His Sons

The three brothers count their great harvest.

My name: _____

A story from Ancient Greece (Aesop)

Adapted from public-domain sources (The Aesop for Children, 1919, Library of Congress).