

The One Who Was Not Counted

A pigeon looks down at the family below.

My name: _____

A story from Māori, Aotearoa New Zealand

Retold from "Polynesian Mythology" (1855). The book carries the name of Sir George Grey, the colonial Governor, but most of the telling came from manuscripts by Te Rangikāheke (Wiremu Maihi Te Rangikāheke) of Ngāti Rangiwewehi, the Māori chief and scholar who lived with Grey to teach him the language.